Let us not teach and preach so much, But cherish, rather than profess; Be careful how the thoughts we touch Of God, and Love, and Holiness.

A charm, west spiritual, faint, And de ionie, foreskes the breast; Ried-like, shou is perusives the saint sing, on oying, let us live;

Set here to grow, what should we do But take what soil and climate give? For thence must come our sap and hue; Blooming as sweetly as we may,

Nor beckon comers, nor debar;

Eet them take balm or gall away, According as their natures are. Look straight at all things from the soul But boast not much to understand : Make each new section, sound and whole,

Then leave it in its place unscann'd. Be true, devoid of sim or care, Nor posture, nor an agonise; Karw well that clouds of this our air But seem to wrap the mighty skies.

Search starry mysterics overhead, Where wonders gleam; yet bear in

That earth's our planet, firm to tread, Nor in the star-dance left behind. For nothing is withheld, be sure, Our being needed to be shown;

The far was meant to be obscure, The near was placed so to be known. o mark the course would provide devery trusty landmark too. To close us in its shadow's class; It cannot touch us, nor we it;
